Folks,

I have been wanting to get on the IDLDoc bandwagon for awhile now. But I have never been able to successfully get reasonable looking output from any of my (apparently feeble) attempts to get it to work.

Today I downloaded the very latest from Mike's web page, and spent most of the afternoon trying one combination after the other. Nearly all of my attempts, no matter what I set the FORMAT_STYLE keyword to, end up looking like a dog's dish with all my comments slammed together in a single paragraph.

I'm usually no good at figuring these kinds of things out, but I have spent enough time on it that I would have expected to be somewhere by now. Line endings seem somehow to be involved, so I thought I would just ask, has anyone gotten this to work on a Windows machine?

Cheers,

David
