
Subject: Re: the "real" screen size
Posted by David Fanning on Mon, 25 Oct 2010 13:36:33 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

David Fanning writes:

```
> Ah, is this what Carsten means:
>
> IDL> device, get_screen_size=s
> IDL> print,s
> 1280 1024
> IDL> window, xsize=1280, ysize=1024
> IDL> print, !d.x_size, !d.y_size
> 1280 1024
>
> If so, then you only need fudge factors for Windows. ;-)
```

Ah, yes. I just fired up my Linux machine. These size variables do contain the real window size. Now, if we just could find a cross-platform solution we would be golden!

Cheers,

David

--
David Fanning, Ph.D.
Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.
Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: <http://www.dfanning.com/>
Sepore ma de ni thui. ("Perhaps thou speakest truth.")
