Subject: Re: ide vs command line: unable to allocate memory
Posted by Heinz Stege on Sun, 24 Oct 2010 14:21:32 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hi Lorenzo,

Scott had a tip in another thread (see 0257d0d4-22dc-4193-a7bc-1b9dd47c377e@h7g2000yqn.googlegroups.com) in this group some time before.

On Tue, 7 Sep 2010 09:57:56 -0700 (PDT), Scott E wrote:

> Assuming you are on a 32-bit platform, the issue here is there is too > much RAM allocated to the JVM to run the workbench and not enough for > IDL. To increase the memory available to IDL, navigate to the > idlde.ini file in the bin/bin.<arch> folder (a peer to the idlde > executable). That file should look like this:
>
> -vm
> {VM_DIR}
> -vmargs
> -Xms256M
> -Xmx768M
> -XX:MaxPermSize=128m
>
> Change it to look like this and restart the workbench:
>
> -vm
> {VM_DIR}
> -vmargs
> -Xms128M
> -Xmx128M
>
> where {VM_DIR} is the path to the JVM (should not change). This issue > is fixed in 8.0.1.
>
> Cheers,
> Scott

It worked for me.

Heinz