
Subject: Re: Finding the index of the median
Posted by Dean Schulze on Tue, 29 Oct 1996 08:00:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

David Fanning wrote:

- > Be aware that there can be multiple locations in your
- > array that are equal to the median value. The index that
- > is returned by the WHERE function will be an array of
- > all of those values.

That is exactly why the WHERE() function won't work.
I need to know which one of those locations is returned by the MEDIAN() function.

Dean Schulze

=====
"You plot the growth of the NEA [National Education Association] and the dropping of SAT scores, and they're inversely proportional.
The problems are unions in the schools. The problem is bureaucracy.
I'm one of these people who believes the best thing we could ever do is go to the full voucher system."

Steve Jobs
Wired Magazine, Feb. 96
<http://www.hotwired.com/wired/4.02/features/jobs.html>
=====
