Subject: Re: Using non-default symbols in IPLOT
Posted by penteado on Tue, 15 Feb 2011 21:18:01 GMT

On Feb 15, 6:43 pm, fgg <fabioguimaraesgoncal...@gmail.com> wrote:
> I actually have a vector of strings, say:
>
> mysymbol=obj_new('idlgrtext',
> ['A','B','C',...],alignment=0.5,vertical_alignment=0.5,color > =[255,0,0],
> font=obj_new('idlgrfont','courier',size=1000))
>
> and I'd like to plot the 1st string as the symbol for the 1st point, > the 2nd string as the symbol for the 2nd point, and so on...
>
> Do I have to create a loop for that? Or there is a simpler way?

If there is, I would like to know it.