Does anyone one have any suggestions for a plotting software like IDL (for linux), but less expensive. All i need is just x-y and surface (z=f(x,y)) plots. Nothing fancy in data massaging or anything. regular IDL is just too expensive for home use.

Free software is even more welcome, but i don't mind a small charge either. Is gnuplot any good?

TIA Surinder I speak only for myself, not for my employer ______
