Folks,

Coyote's Guide to Traditional IDL Graphics is arriving from the printers and will be shipped today! My office looks like the headquarters of a military campaign. Coyote is already talking about a nap! (5:30 AM is, uh, earlier than he usually gets to work, but we have things to do!)

Many thanks again to everyone who supported this project with kind words, proofreading, and -- especially -- purchasing books. I am amazed, and deeply grateful, for how many books I've sold without actually having a book to sell!

We have had three birthdays in the family this month, and I can assure you, waiting for these books to arrive is nearly as exciting. All that is missing is a fresh coat of paint for my office. :-)

Cheers,

David

P.S. Let's just say there is talk about adding a room onto the house to hold the new arrival. :-(
