
Subject: Re: binary files

Posted by [Paul Van Delst\[1\]](#) on Mon, 14 Mar 2011 23:35:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Whether or not this is a homework question, you'll find that help is more likely to be given if you show what you have already tried to do that didn't work.

BigDavell wrote:

> Hello IDL users

>

> I am new to learning IDL, I have looked at all the Web Seminars, even > order books Gumley, Bowman, & Fanning and have been reading them . I > am just having trouble with the basic. I am trying to set my directory > for where my data is located. I tried running a simple program to read > a binary file but can not get it to work. Can anyone please give me > some advice on how to solve this problem.

>

> A set of NDVI (Normalized Difference Vegetation Index) data with > global coverage and > 1oX1o degree resolution is given in Binary format (file name:
> EOS754_HW1_Data_NDVI.zip).
> Please read the data in your environment or by a program, and display > the following results.

>

> a. Color images of NDVI values for July 1982 over the US continent > (17oN-51oN and > 130oW-62oW).
> b. Display the time series of NDVI values over the pixel centered at > (38.5oN, 77.5oW) for > July 1981-June 1983 period.

>

>

> I am understanding the syntax but something is not click with me. Any > help that anyone can provide would be greatly appreciated
