

---

Subject: Re: Determining which license is being used.
Posted by Tom McGlynn on Wed, 20 Apr 2011 11:28:11 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

On Apr 19, 5:49 pm, Lyre Delasangre <dragonessdelasan...@gmail.com> wrote:

> On Apr 19, 3:23 pm, Michael Galloy <mgal...@gmail.com> wrote:

>

>> On 4/19/11 1:14 PM, Tom McGlynn wrote:

>

>>> I've recently had some trouble running IDL in CGI environment and one >>> of the areas I'd like to explore is what's going on with the license.

>>> I can't log into the environment myself, but I can change the script >>> that is run. I was hoping to get the IDL session to report which >>> license it is using, but I couldn't see anything that provides that >>> information. Is there some system variable or function I could use?

>

>> Check out the LMGR routine. You would have to call it several times with >> different keywords to determine your exact mode, .i.e. am I VM? am I >> runtime? am I trial? etc.

>

> That did the trick... Thanks. The network settings seem to have > gotten changed such that the license manager can't be seen and the > code runs in demo mode. Not surprisingly it's not quite a effective > this way.

> Tom

Just looking at the account for the previous message. Next time I'll know to check before posting after my daughter has been on the computer!

Tom

---