I wasn't necessarily bringing up the issue whether what you were asking was ethically correct or not, I was concerned that in this forum we get a nice community with useful information, and ITTVIS employees sometimes also do contribute.

If we start talking about practices with are illegal in many countries, there may be a chance that this forum may be blocked by some internet providers and/or shunned by some contributors - especially by ITTVIS employees (and I think some posters here have experienced in the past the degree to which ITTVIS goes to protect its intellectual property).
