Sometimes, its like hell to "RUN" some programs that you find in libraries..
Sometimes the dont do what you expect to do...spend hours to modify...
And furthermore their organization is more than chaotic... (eg. a pro file with a lot of functions and pro that calls other functions and pro and only god knows where on "disk" are they...How difficult is it to make separate files for each pro or function??

Thanks to all that take time to answer me
