I've noticed that in cgPlot, if I set the /ISOTROPIC keyword (or set ASPECT to anything, really), the POSITION keyword is ignored. Obviously it can't use the value verbatim, but I guess I would expect that it would use the input position as an outer bounds and then create an isotropic plot within that bound.

-Jeremy.