
Subject: Re: Can IDL receive messages from dlls using call_external

Posted by Nigel Wade on Fri, 26 Aug 2011 09:01:19 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On 25/08/11 18:45, rohit bhat wrote:

> Hi,

>

> I was trying to implement a code where a C# program passes a value to

> IDL through a .dll file. Is there anyway I can program in IDL so that > it receives something, instead of sending?

> For example, If I type in 'abc' in my C# application and hit on send;

> That should send a call to IDL and then IDL should display that or its > address.

>

> In short, can IDL be made a listener?

>

If the C# program is the main program then you may be better served using Callable IDL. See the External Developer Guide, Section III - Techniques That Use IDL's Internal API.

--

Nigel Wade
