Subject: Re: idl call envi function, running with out ENVI?
Posted by Maxwell Peck on Thu, 25 Aug 2011 07:01:09 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Aug 25, 10:44 am, "wxfe...@gmail.com" <wxfe...@gmail.com> wrote:
> On Aug 25, 8:13 am, "Jeff N." <jeffnettles4...@gmail.com> wrote:
>
>
>
>
>
>> On Aug 23, 11:26 pm, "wxfe...@gmail.com" <wxfe...@gmail.com> wrote:
>
>>> I just write a simple IDL program, while the major code write in IDL >>> with some function of ENVI to speed up my programing.
>
>>> example:
>>> PRO test_read
>>>   COMPILE_OPT idl2
>>>   file_name = DIALOG_PICKFILE(/READ,FILTER='.')
>>>   ENVI_OPEN_FILE, file_name, r_fid=r_dem,/NO_REALIZE
>>>   IF (r_dem EQ -1) THEN RETURN
>>> END
>
>>> I hope to release this code running without ENVI, what should I do?
>
>> Are you asking how to read an envi file without envi running (ie, >> using just idl)? If so that's easy, it's just a matter of the >> specifics you need to achieve (ie, do you know the dimensions >> beforehand?). Why don't you explain what you want to do a little >> better...
>
> yes I want to read an envi file and do some image process(using some > envi function).
> and I hope the code(released in exe or other format) could run on the > other computer without envi installed.- Hide quoted text -
>
> - Show quoted text -

Unless something is changed this is not possible. You need to use IDL functions only (which may or may not be straightforward).

Max