
Subject: Re: idl keeps 'analyzing' - and my path is ok?
Posted by shaheda shahi on Fri, 21 Oct 2011 16:42:15 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

On Oct 21, 11:34 am, desertdryad <dry...@gmail.com> wrote:

> Hi folks -

>

> Has anyone stumbled on any other known causes of IDL (I have 7.0) > taking forever to start up, while it's 'analyzing code'? I've checked > my path, and all seems ok, there. It's taking several minutes to > start up - sometimes, not always. Any suggestions?

Hi,

Are you using many if loops in your code? I too have these
'analysing code' for a long period.

The problem either may be due to the low RAM speed in the system or due to the buffering problem in IDL. Do you have this problem when you run it for the first time itself?

-Shaheda
