Subject: Re: How 2 access to ubuntu in my office
Posted by d.poreh on Mon, 12 Dec 2011 09:48:38 GMT

On Dec 11, 10:06 pm, Matt Francis <mattjamesfran...@gmail.com> wrote:
> If you don't need an X display then PuTTY (http://www.chiark.greenend.org.uk/~sgtatham/putty/) is a free and relatively > easy to use option for Windows. From memory Ubuntu I think > installations by default don't have an ssh server installed. This is a > help page for a slightly older Ubuntu install than the most up to > date, but it should all still be correcthttps://help.ubuntu.com/10.04/serverguide/C/openssh-s erver.html
>
> There may be some trickiness getting into your office machine though, > depending on what security is in place at your workplace.

thanks Matt. Putty is working just fine.
Cheers,
Dave