
Subject: Conumdrum -- Or What's a Newsgroup For
Posted by David Fanning on Tue, 21 Feb 2012 23:36:28 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Folks,

As long as we are just shooting the bull today, I thought I would try this one on you. Not sure what it has to do with IDL, except that thinking about it has had me avoiding most of my work today.

I played tennis on Saturday. There are about 2-3 times a year when I'd really prefer NOT to be playing tennis and that was one of those days. It was probably the worst day of tennis I've had in the past 2-3 years!

Last night, the Monday night doubles turned to singles (which I seldom ever play anymore), I somehow left my (badly needed!) glasses out of my tennis bag, and I'm sure I played the two best sets of tennis I have ever played in my life!

Here is my question. What principle of the Universe explains this, and how would you use this principle to predict my future performance (tonight, for example)?

Extra credit given for any explanation that will help me convince my wife I need new rackets.

Cheers,

David

--

David Fanning, Ph.D.
Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.
Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: <http://www.idlcoyote.com/>
Sepore ma de ni thui. ("Perhaps thou speakest truth.")
