Folks,

Alright, I got the neighbor girl (10, home-schooled, smart!) to set me up with a Twitter account so I can get the word out on updates to my web page, advances in program design (I hesitate to call them "bugs") in Coyote Library programs, and general nonsense.

I suppose you could search for IDLCoyote from your Twitter account, or you can find Follow Me buttons on the most likely pages on my web page. I'm not going to be spending a lot of time doing this, but I'll see how it goes.

I'm always up for new things. (I can see my children rolling their eyes now!)

Cheers,

David
