

---

Subject: Re: spawn GDAL???

Posted by anniebryant@gmail.com on Thu, 19 Jul 2012 19:53:31 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

On Wednesday, July 18, 2012 3:26:15 PM UTC-6, Craig Markwardt wrote:

> On Wednesday, July 18, 2012 4:38:51 PM UTC-4, AB wrote:

> &gt; On Wednesday, July 18, 2012 2:27:30 PM UTC-6, Craig Markwardt wrote:

> ...

> &gt; If the path is being reset... is it possible to avoid that?

> &gt;

> &gt; AB

>

> You have to investigate what your .profile and/or .bashrc does to the various paths.

>

> I would start IDL, then spawn an interactive &#39;sh&#39; shell from within IDL, and then try again to call the Python program by hand.

>

> You still didn&#39;t say what your error message was. The traceback only tells where the error occurred, not what the error was.

That is all I got for an error. i.e. the "traceback method" sentences were all that printed out.

---