

---

Subject: Re: image interplate and overlay lat/lon?

Posted by Yngvar Larsen on Mon, 27 Aug 2012 10:49:27 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

On Wednesday, 22 August 2012 18:26:11 UTC+2, David Fanning wrote:

> go cats writes:

- > Maybe there are GeoTiff files that use latitude and longitude values for
- > the tie points and scales, but I've never seen any. All the GeoTiff
- > files I've ever worked with use projected meter values and include
- > information about the map projection in the file.

<OffTopic>

The near-global digital elevation model data from the NASA Shuttle Radar Topography Mission, see <http://srtm.csi.cgiar.org/>, is distributed on a latitude/longitude grid, as GeoTIFF. Due to its "near-globalness", obviously.

</OffTopic>

--

Yngvar

---