On Thu, 04 Oct 2012 12:07:27 -0600, David Fanning wrote:

> David Fanning writes:
>
>> I can neither kill the Project Wizard (because there is an "active" >> project going on, a poor choice of words under the circumstances), nor >> exit IDL (because it is being blocked by the Project Wizard.
>
> Seriously!? CTRL-ALT-DELETE doesnt' even help. That Project Wizard can't > be killed!! Friggin' A. And my hard disk problem on my other computer is > back after spending the morning reinstalling software. It is a SERIOUSLY > bad day, today! :-(

It's been my experience that a quick tug on the power cord, followed by a nice cold adult beverage solves (or at least delays) most problems involving computers...

Bruce