

---

Subject: Re: Making a scaleable plot for use in publications

Posted by liamsteele on Thu, 25 Oct 2012 01:10:21 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

On Thursday, 25 October 2012 01:12:32 UTC+1, David wrote:

> Coyote writes:

>

>

>

>> I presume you are talking about PDF files. I do it like this using Coyote Graphics:

>

>>

>

>> `cgHistoplot, cgDemodata(7), /Fill, Output='histoplot.ps'`

>

>> `cgPS2PDF, 'histoplot.ps'`

>

>

>

> I'm not sure how the PDF functionality got missed, but I just > checked in a new `cgPS2Raster` file with PDF functionality, so > you don't have to use two steps to create a PDF file. If you > download the new `cgPS2Raster` file here:

>

>

>

>

>

>

> <http://www.idlcoyote.com/programs/cgps2raster.pro>

>

>

>

> You can create PDF files from IDL commands directly:

>

>

>

> `cgHistoplot, cgDemodata(7), /Fill, Output='histoplot.pdf'`

>

>

>

> Cheers,

>

>

>

> David

>

> --

>
> David Fanning, Ph.D.
>
> Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.
>
> Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: <http://www.dfanning.com/>
>
> Sepore ma de ni thue. ("Perhaps thos speakest truth.")

Brilliant stuff David!

I'll certainly give your routine a go when I'm next in the office. Thanks for all the help. :)

---