I really like the idea behind this page and wish there were more of them available on the web.

In a previous life (!) I used python/matplotlib to generate various plots. For those not familiar with the matplotlib package it has a superb gallery page (matplotlib.org/gallery.html), much like the astrolib page.

Quite frankly.... Find the plot closest to your requirements and *borrow* the code. Sounds cheap but it really helps when learning or trying to do something new.

Keep up the good work.
