Subject: Re: MEAN function not working properly.
Posted by David Fanning on Wed, 29 May 2013 17:48:24 GMT

Martín Garay-MacLean writes:

> I am trying to use the mean function, in idl 8.1, with the NAN keyword. However, when I run it, it gives the error that the NAN keyword cannot be used with the mean function. I understand this was a problem before 7.1, and that it should not be happening in 8.1
>
> I checked the mean.pro file, and it does in fact have the NAN keyword in it. Hve anyone run into this?

You are finding a MEAN function from somewhere else on your IDL path. To locate which one you are using, type this:

    IDL> Print, File_Which('mean.pro')

Remove that one, or rearrange your IDL path directories, to get it sorted out.

Cheers,

David

--
David Fanning, Ph.D.
Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.
Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: http://www.idlcoyote.com/
Sepore ma de ni thue. ("Perhaps thou speakest truth.")