On Thursday, July 11, 2013 8:59:25 PM UTC+2, David Fanning wrote:
> Helder writes:
>
>
>
>
>> Still the plot() in the widget_window function does not work...
>
>
>
> Guess I'm not surprised, it seemed like a long shot. :-)
>
>
>
> Here is another. Can you get other widget programs to work when you have > the widget_window open (and not working). For example, can you run
>
>
> XCOLORS in this situation and find you can change color tables?
>
>
>
> Cheers,
>
>
>
> David
>
>
>
>
>
> --
>
> David Fanning, Ph.D.
>
> Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.
>
> Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: http://www.idlcoyote.com/
>
> Sepore ma de ni thue. ("Perhaps thou speakest truth.")

Yes, XCOLORS works when I have widget_window open. Actually everything works... of course this is the first time I was trying the widget_window out.

Thanks for the try.
Cheers,
Helder