There is always a good chance Coyote is hung over when I ask him to do a very simple thing like update the documentation on the web page. If he screws it up, like he did here, you can always open any Coyote Graphics routine and find the documentation at the very top of the file. It's built in, as it is on most IDL programs you find on the Internet. In this case, the keywords you are looking for are Charsize and Symsize.

Cheers,

David
