Subject: Re: permissions for external hard disk on Fedora 22
Posted by Lajos Foldy on Wed, 05 Aug 2015 10:31:41 GMT

On Wednesday, August 5, 2015 at 10:32:35 AM UTC+2, Induja Shaji wrote:
> Hi..
> I am compiling a fortran code which is saved in a external hard disk connected to my laptop(with fedora 22 OS). After compiling the output file created is not an executable one. it shows like,
>
> $ ./hist
> bash: ./hist: Permission denied
>
> Now I tried to change the mod with
>
> $ chmod 777 hist
>
> then, it doesn't shows any error, but still the file is not executable.howcaniresolvethis?

Security. Untrusted sources (CDs, pen drives, etc) are mounted noexec.

sudo mount -o remount -o exec /dev/...

regards,
Lajos