This Usenet group has recently come heavy attack by spammers, and in response Google has blocked access to comp.lang.idl-pvwave. While this should eliminate most of the spam (which has been mainly posted through Google via gmail), it also means that users can no longer access this group via Google. Since this is how most users have accessed comp.lang.idl-pvwave, I encourage everyone to move to the Google group

You need to have a Google account, and to press the button asking to join the idl-pvwave group.
