It appears that the problem is indeed with the computer configuration. The solution turned out to be the following lines in the file /var/X11/Xserver.conf:

```
! Cateye Sever args start
-pn -nice -2 -bs -su
! Cateye Server args end
```

Apparently, this disables backing store and save unders. When I removed the -bs and -su switches from the command line, and rebooted, the problem went away.

Thanks to David Fanning and Stein Vidar for the discussion about the problems with using RETAIN=2 and object graphics.
