

---

Subject: Re: SAVE/RESTORE question

Posted by J.D. Smith on Wed, 20 Oct 1999 07:00:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Quanyu Zhu wrote:

>
> Hi:
> I am just a beginner with IDL.
> I just used a pre-defined route which written by others, and save it > into the > 'xdr' file. I tried to figure out what is going on in its source. Does > anyone know how I can see the source code within the 'xdr' file ?
> My calling precedure is"
> " restore 'foo.xdr'
> foo,input, output. "
> foo is the function I want to see the source code.
> Does anyone know how to do that ?
> Thanks !

Contact the author of the routine! Seriously, the byte-compiled routine you have isn't going to tell you much about the source code, just as staring at a Microsoft Word binary isn't going to open the gates of Bill.

JD

--

J.D. Smith                   |*|    WORK: (607) 255-5842
Cornell University Dept. of Astronomy |*|    (607) 255-6263
304 Space Sciences Bldg.       |*|    FAX: (607) 255-5875
Ithaca, NY 14853            |*|

---