Subject: Does the hide-keyword work?
Posted by Karri Kaksonen on Sat, 30 Oct 1999 07:00:00 GMT

Sorry to bother you again...

The keyword that controls the display attribute for the
graphics is controlled by a keyword "hide"

o->setproperty, hide=1

makes the object invisible :)

o->setproperty, hide=0

does not bring it back :(

Is there a way to bring my object back or did I lose
it for good?

--
Regards,

Karri Kaksonen

Subject: Re: Does the hide-keyword work?
Posted by Karri Kaksonen on Sun, 31 Oct 1999 07:00:00 GMT

mumble.. mumble...
sorry. I was a bad student at Davids course.
He told me not to use keyword_set to check if the user has entered a keyword. But I forgot...

  if keyword_set(hide) then o->setproperty, hide=hide is obviously not the same as if n_elements(hide) ne 0 then o->setproperty, hide=hide

Now "hide" works just as I thought it would.
Thank you for your trouble,

--
Karri

Mark Hadfield wrote:

```
>> o->setproperty, hide=1
>>
>> makes the object invisible :)
>>
>> o->setproperty, hide=0
>>
>> does not bring it back :(
> Setting HIDE to zero should have made your object visible again. But the > window will need to be redrawn before you can see the change.
>
> ---
> Mark Hadfield
```

Subject: Re: Does the hide-keyword work?
Posted by Mark Hadfield on Sun, 31 Oct 1999 07:00:00 GMT

```
Karri Kaksonen <karri.kaksonen@picker.fi> wrote in message news:381ABD4D.AD240E63@picker.fi...
> Sorry to bother you again...
>
> The keyword that controls the display attribute for the > graphics is controlled by a keyword "hide"
>
> o->setproperty, hide=1
>
> makes the object invisible :)
>
> o->setproperty, hide=0
>
> does not bring it back :(
>
> Is there a way to bring my object back or did I lose
> it for good?
```

Setting HIDE to zero should have made your object visible again. But the window will need to be redrawn before you can see the change.

Mark Hadfield
m.hadfield@niwa.cri.nz http://katipo.niwa.cri.nz/~hadfield/
National Institute for Water and Atmospheric Research
PO Box 14-901, Wellington, New Zealand