How about setting various military recruiting pamphlets in his general vicinity? That should cut back on the tuition costs. Then again, you should be thankful he's not in Humboldt, CA, living in a tree for the last couple years.

No, that's the college fund. I've been talking up the exciting prospects of plumbing and hanging dry wall lately, but it's not going over too big with my brood. Especially the hot-shot, whose college major better be bankruptcy law. :-(

Cheers,

David

Uh, about $100/hour, I think, what with the summer holiday plans coming together. :-(

Cheers,

David

David Fanning's answer to a similar subject on 8/25/98 were:

Yes. They run about $75/hour. :-)
