Standards!? We ain't got no stinkin' standards. Goodness, we let Ben Tupper post all the time and he ain't even a member of the IDL Expert Programmer's Association. (Although I hear on the grapevine he is being considered in the Simple, But Safe category, if he can get his color problems sorted out).

Cheers,

David

Forget the coffee mug. Try to push the Founder for a new graphics card as an award :-)

Alas, any capital gains I realized were wiped out with the recent collapse of my Microsoft position. :-(

But I'll put this on my list, right after the backyard tennis court.

Cheers,

David

P.S. Any chance someone can help poor Jordan out with his original question? He is getting a very strange impression of this newsgroup. :-(

Hello,

I can't tell you how thrilled I am that I am under consideration for the Simple, But Safe honor. When was I promoted from Just Unwrapped the Box category to Very Trying category? Was I supposed to get a certificate or something? A coffee mug? A new Alden Ocean Rowing Shell? (Just thought I'd include that last one in case you made a killing when buying your new house. Capital gains troubles? I can help. Really.)
