Hi Folks,

Just wanted to let you European folks know that I will be teaching an Advanced IDL Programming Course just outside of Reading, England June 26-29th. (Part of the big German holiday with my family and oldest son.)

These UK courses are always wonderful, and this year may be especially so as most IDL programmers are apparently attending Wimbledon rather than the course. :-)

In any case, you will learn a lot about widget programming, writing your own direct graphics objects, and about the object graphics system in IDL. Plus, I have some new jokes and stories I am trying out for the first time. (Well, alright, if you come I'll save the jokes for the Americans.)

For detailed information, please contact Doug Wilson in RSI's UK office:

Phone: +44(0)-134-4760400

Cheers,

David

P.S. Let's just say I won't be reading this newsgroup for the next month or so. This group is almost as hard to give up as my tennis junkies group that meets most mornings at 5:30 AM. :-)
