Subject: Re: CURSOR and draw widgets
Posted by David Bowman on Thu, 20 Jul 2000 07:00:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Thanks... I should have been able to figure that one out... A clear-cut case of being too close to the problem, too late in the day! :-) regards, david

In article <3977309A.5A8CA7DA@ssec.wisc.edu>, Liam E.Gumley <Liam.Gumley@ssec.wisc.edu> wrote:

>

- > Have you considered using CONVERT_COORD to covert device coordinates to
- > data (or normal) coordinates?

>

- > Cheers,
- > Liam.
- > http://cimss.ssec.wisc.edu/~gumley

David Bowman "Smash forehead on keyboard to continue."
Laboratoire Tectonique
Institut de Physique du Globe - Paris
4 Place Jussieu
75252 Paris Cedex 05

France

Subject: Re: CURSOR and draw widgets
Posted by Liam E. Gumley on Thu, 20 Jul 2000 07:00:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

David Bowman wrote:

- > Is there any simple way to get the cursor position from a draw
- > widget in DATA coordinates? For some reason that I don't comprehend,
- > one is not supposed to use the CURSOR routine with widgets, however
- > button and tracking events only give device coordinates.

Have you considered using CONVERT_COORD to covert device coordinates to data (or normal) coordinates?

Cheers,

Liam.

http://cimss.ssec.wisc.edu/~gumley