I just had Martin Schultz stop by my office. He introduced me to his NCDF handling routines, and his mgs_contour. I must admit, I would've never probably take the time to figure it all out by myself, but now I am certainly going to use it. Thank you, Martin! I think it would be nice if we could personally meet more people we know through the newsgroup. Although I must admit that if I knew JD was coming, I'd probably hide IDL from my desktop and say I never heard of it, to avoid shameful exposure of my poor code. Or, if caught off-guard, like when Martin came over, I'd have to press that "freeze my Mac OS" key combination I know so well :-)

Cheers,
Pavel
