Hello everybody,

talking to a colleague, I came to the question, when one would need `widget_control,ID,SENT_EVENT=...`

The only advantage over calling the eventhandler directly
I can think of, is that you don't need eventhandlers name (Ok, it might indeed be a big advantage, if you program in a team).

Do I miss something?

Is there another reason/situation where sending events is really needed?

thanks for suggestions,
marc
