In case you haven't noticed it, IDL now has a nice World Wide Web home page at URL:

http://sslaboratory.colorado.edu:2222/projects/IDL/idl\_ssl\_home.htm

It basically explains what IDL is, gives pricing information, supported platforms, things like that. It also gives one a connection into the ftp site for downloading the current version of IDL. In addition, there's a gallery with a bunch of pretty pictures showing what IDL can do--maybe they could also add some MPEG animations in the future?

Happy webbing,

Bill Thompson
