Folks,

I give up!

I made some smart-alky remark about my PSConfig program on this newsgroup the other day, claiming it was God's Gift or some such nonsense. Apparently I managed to convince some unsuspecting IDL programmer to actually download it and give it a try.

Of course, it wouldn't even compile. :-(

God knows I'm getting feeble, but now my mind is going too. I will swear on a stack of Bibles that I have fixed that problem on *AT LEAST* 15 previous occasions.

Anyway, forget what I said about it. Using it is about the only thing that is MORE frustrating than doing PostScript output the old-fashioned way. :-(

Cheers,

David

P.S. Let's just say I'm leaving now on a long deserved vacation. It's possible I may never come back. :-)

Vacation is OK but "never come back" aint' gonna work. The very first call like "Help! All my colors are red" will lure you right out of cover :-)

Cheers,
Pavel
