I got these error,

but on the way is this only web based?
What's the most difference using this news-group?
Will it be cross referenced by google search?

Uh, what's happening? Is RSI becoming interested in what users are doing? Is this a good or bad sign? Is it reaching out to offer a site to exchange information or trying to get influx of ideas?...

I'm willing to give RSI the benefit of the doubt and suggest they are finally reaching out to their users in ways they didn't before. (Although how their forum is going to attract people away from this newsgroup, I don't know. What could be better than this newsgroup!?)

Now, when are they going to come up with some funds for the IDL Expert Programmers Association, is what I want to know! That would really mark them as legitimate.

Cheers,

David

P.S. For those of you unfamiliar with the IDL Expert Programmers Association (IEPA) and who are wondering how to join, I've put some information on my web page:

Cheers,

David
