It seems like I started to ask a lot of questions lately about IDL. Sorry, it just our Advanced Scientific Support seems to know nothing about IDL, so I am stcuk. My problem is that I have a widget based application running, and it seems like each time I switch cursor from one window to another,(even with wset and tvcrs, command), Xmmanagers still manages to read in values of the point that I just came out off. To make matters worse, it is not the same point, where I was , but the one, which is the CLOSEST to the window I just jumped into...
Did someone encounter this Problem before? Am I overlooking the obvious?
Thank you for your time
