
Subject: Re: The IDL Book Bidness

Posted by Francis Burton on Thu, 12 Dec 2002 18:22:12 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

David Fanning wrote:

- > In all those years, I have never counted up how many
- > books I sold. I did last night. Are you sitting down?
- >
- > 4365

Congratulations, David - clearly you did something right!

- > P.S. Let's just say that when I showed the numbers to my
- > wife I suddenly learned that I would be writing another
- > book real soon now. :-(

Well, dare I confess in this forum I have been playing around with Matlab recently and would certainly appreciate a book with the calibre of IPT. How does that strike you? :-)

Best wishes,

Francis

(who has copies of both editions)

Subject: Re: The IDL Book Bidness

Posted by Pavel A. Romashkin on Thu, 12 Dec 2002 20:44:35 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

David Fanning wrote:

- >
- > In all those years, I have never counted up how many
- > books I sold. I did last night. Are you sitting down?
- >
- > 4365

Congratulations! Although it is not quite yet at the Harry Potter level of success, it is very impressive. Besides, if you David enjoyed too much popularity we might lose you to a fashion show or something, and that would be bad for us.

Keep it up!

Cheers,

Pavel
