Folks,

Do you know when you start a windows application up, the icon and window title for those windows change, reflecting the new application? IDL's windows, for example, have the little green/red squares logo in front of what looks like a notebook (I don't know, don't ask me).

Where do these windows find their icons? If I wanted to replace the IDL icon with an icon of my choosing, how would I do that? I presume this might be a register thing, but I don't really know where to look.

Ideally, I would like to be able to create customized windows for my customer applications.

Thanks,

David
