Subject: IDL, arrays, and memory
Posted by Sean Raffuse on Tue, 04 Feb 2003 16:34:27 GMT

I would like to create a jagged array. My array is something like:

array = intarr(3600, 1600, 240 or less)

Do I save space by creating a jagged array where the 3rd dimension is of variable size? Is that even possible? Should I just stick with 3600x1600x240?

-Sean