Subject: Re: how to do *b++=100 as in C
Posted by marc schellens[1] on Fri, 03 Oct 2003 10:15:51 GMT

linfanluntan wrote:
> as title, pls

In IDL a ptr is a kind of handle to some data,
it itself conbtains an ID number, not a memory location.
Therefore ptr arithmetics are not possible in IDL.

So you cannot do that.

hdh,
marc

Subject: Re: how to do *b++=100 as in C
Posted by familyhe on Fri, 03 Oct 2003 17:59:08 GMT

Many thanks

Marc Schellens <m_schellens@hotmail.com> wrote in message
news:<3F7D4C57.1040605@hotmail.com>...
> linfanluntan wrote:
>> as title, pls
>
> In IDL a ptr is a kind of handle to some data,
> it itself conbtains an ID number, not a memory location.
> Therefore ptr arithmetics are not possible in IDL.
>
> So you cannot do that.
>
> hdh,
> marc