
Subject: Re: Writing output files with ION/Script
Posted by Haje Korth on Wed, 19 Jan 2005 12:59:56 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Wayne,
the PNG and JPEG format is only for display in the browser. No one prevents you from creating postscript files in ION, which can be downloaded using a download script. I do this all the time.

Haje

"Wayne Landsman" <landsman@sampa.gsfc.nasa.gov> wrote in message news:csj4$poel4$skates.gsfc.nasa.gov...

> The ION page on RSI's website (<http://www.rsinc.com/ion/>) gives the > wavelet demo (<http://ion.researchsystems.com/IONScript/wavelet/>).
> One nice feature of this demo is the ability to save the output image as > a postscript (or EPS) file. However, as far as I can tell from the > ION/Script documentation the only available output image formats are > PNG, PNG24 and JPEG24. The source code is not available for this > site -- perhaps they use some non-ION/Script elements to get the > postscript output?
>
> What I would really like to do is be able to output a binary (FITS) file > after the user has modified an image.
>
> Thanks, --Wayne Landsman
>

Subject: Re: Writing output files with ION/Script
Posted by enod on Thu, 20 Jan 2005 13:48:51 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Yeah. One can use IDL in ION Script to store the data in any file format that IDL can handle.

Tian

Haje Korth wrote:

> Wayne,
> the PNG and JPEG format is only for display in the browser. No one prevents > you from creating postscript files in ION, which can be downloaded > using a > download script. I do this all the time.
>
> Haje
>

> "Wayne Landsman" <landsman@sampa.gsfc.nasa.gov> wrote in message > news:csjsl4$poel1@skates.gsfc.nasa.gov...
>> The ION page on RSI's website (<http://www.rsinc.com/ion/>) gives the >> wavelet demo (<http://ion.researchsystems.com/IONScript/wavelet/>).
>> One nice feature of this demo is the ability to save the output image as >> a postscript (or EPS) file. However, as far as I can tell from the >> ION/Script documentation the only available output image formats are >> PNG, PNG24 and JPEG24. The source code is not available for this >> site -- perhaps they use some non-ION/Script elements to get the >> postscript output?
>>
>> What I would really like to do is be able to output a binary (FITS) file
>> after the user has modified an image.
>>
>> Thanks, --Wayne Landsman
>>
