
Subject: iTool Challenge Quiz

Posted by David Fanning on Fri, 06 May 2005 03:55:54 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Folks,

Well, I just took the iTools Challenge Quiz. It took me nearly an hour because...well, it wasn't timed and I wanted to be sure of my answers. I really want that T-shirt!

So, I submit my answers and guess what: every one of them marked incorrect!!! I don't think so!

I think I must have really pissed somebody off at RSI and my name is written on the wall there. Is there anyone who isn't interested in a T-shirt who would allow me to log in under their name and take the quiz? I'm really, really desperate. :-)

Cheers,

David

P.S. Let's just say even someone who doesn't like iTools is likely to get ONE right answer, just by chance!

--

David Fanning, Ph.D.

Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.

Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: <http://www.dfanning.com/>

Subject: Re: iTool Challenge Quiz

Posted by David Fanning on Fri, 06 May 2005 22:39:59 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

David Fanning writes:

> Well, I just took the iTools Challenge Quiz. It took me nearly > an hour because...well, it wasn't timed and I wanted to be > sure of my answers. I really want that T-shirt!
>
> So, I submit my answers and guess what: every one of them > marked incorrect!!! I don't think so!

Just so you know, this was a little problem in which you only had 15 minutes to answer the 20 questions. (Worse the the GRE's!) RSI is working on the problem, and has implemented a fix where you get 15 minutes now for each group of four questions. But my advice would be to do your homework before you log on for best results. :-)

Cheers,

David

--

David Fanning, Ph.D.

Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.

Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: <http://www.dfanning.com/>
