
Subject: Re: help: window content erased after resize
Posted by Antonio Santiago on Wed, 25 May 2005 05:55:25 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Chi-Kuei Wang wrote:

> Hi,
>
> After plotting a simple curve in a window, when I resize the window > (using cursor), the window content is erased by the window border. Is > there a way to sync the size the window and the size of the content inside?
> I remember some time ago I found an answer. Since I haven't used IDL > for a while, I just can't find the answer.
>
> Chi-Kuei

It is not possible. You are responsible to get every new window size and modify its content size.

This can help you: http://www.dfanning.com/widget_tips/resize_draw.html

Bye.

--

Antonio Santiago Piç½rez
(email: santiago@grahi.upc.edu)
(www: <http://www.grahi.upc.edu/santiago>)
(www: <http://asantiago.blogspot.org>)

GRAHI - Grup de Recerca Aplicada en Hidrometeorologia
Universitat Politècnica de Catalunya

Subject: Re: help: window content erased after resize
Posted by Chi-Kuei Wang on Thu, 26 May 2005 15:06:35 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Antonio Santiago wrote:

> Chi-Kuei Wang wrote:
>
>> Hi,
>>
>> After plotting a simple curve in a window, when I resize the window >> (using cursor), the window content is erased by the window border. Is >> there a way to sync the size the window and the size of the content >> inside?

>> I remember some time ago I found an answer. Since I haven't used
>> IDL for a while, I just can't find the answer.
>>
>> Chi-Kuei
>
>
> It is not possible. You are responsible to get every new window size and > modify its content size.
>
> This can help you: http://www.dfanning.com/widget_tips/resize_draw.html
>
>
> Bye.
>

I do have a erroneous memory.

Thanks,

Chi-Kuei
