
Subject: Met Data spatial interpolation

Posted by m211058 on Thu, 01 Dec 1994 11:51:19 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I was wondering whether anyone would have a program in IDL that can do any kind of spatial interpolation of meteorological data, either for filling gaps in gridded data sets, or to produce grid maps from station data.

If nobody knows of any such routine, I will write one myself and make it available to anyone interested. (Are meteorologists using IDL at all?)

Cheers to all.

```
|-----|
| Wolfgang Knorr           Phone : +49 40 41173 214 |
| Max-Planck-Institut f. Meteorologie   Fax  : +49 40 41173 298 |
| Bundesstr. 55                |
| 20146 Hamburg                |
| GERMANY                      knorr@dkrz.d400.de   |
|-----|
```
