Subject: Re: least square fit
Posted by David Fanning on Thu, 29 Nov 2007 15:00:04 GMT

omerphysics@gmail.com writes:

> I have many file with extension (.dat). I need to open them in IDL and > have least square fit.
> Is any one have idea on who to that.

Well, rest assured, the code will be less than 10 lines long. But, which 10 lines will depend on more details.
What do you know about this problem?

You can find a lot of hints at the web page below.

Cheers,

David
--
David Fanning, Ph.D.
Fanning Software Consulting, Inc.
Coyote's Guide to IDL Programming: http://www.dfanning.com/
Sepore ma de ni thui. ("Perhaps thou speakest truth.")

Subject: Re: least square fit
Posted by Haje Korth on Thu, 29 Nov 2007 15:13:02 GMT

Not trying to be rude but how about hitting "?" (without the quotes) press return and start reading the help documentation. Good luck, Haje

<omerphysics@gmail.com> wrote in message
 news:9f9cbce0-fb30-44c9-a498-d93c5f1f010e@e6g2000prf.googleg roups.com...
> Hi
> I have many file with extension (.dat). I need to open them in IDL and > have least square fit.
> Is any one have idea on who to that.